12th October 2022

Dear Parents

Next Friday 21st October, KS2 will be attending the Storytelling Festival in Malvern. We will attend a workshop with Peter Chand, have a picnic in the Winter Gardens and then attend Likely Story Theatre Company - Theatre/ Story Workshop in the afternoon (more information is below).

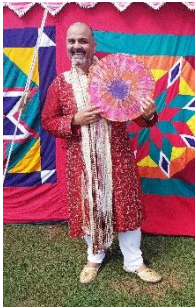

There will be a charge of £9 per pupil for this event – this covers the coach and the 2 shows. We have to leave school shortly after 11am to arrive in Malvern by 11.30am. Your child will need a coat, drink and a packed lunch. We will be back in school for the end of the day.

Please give consent and your £9 contribution on SchoolMoney.

We will need to cover costs in order for the trip to run. If the cost of the trip is prohibitive, then please contact me at school to discuss alternative funding.

Many thanks
Miss Guy

Storyteller: Peter Chand (Friday KS2)

British Indian storyteller Peter Chand is one of Europe's most renowned storytellers and is constantly in demand for his tales of wisdom, love, and the supernatural. He has shared his tales across Britain and has also performed in Norway, France, Lithuania, Austria, Canada, and Singapore, amongst other countries.

He is also a trainer of repute, leading workshops with teachers, librarians, budding storytellers, university students, business leaders, health professionals, and anyone trying to find their voice and gain confidence when performing in public.

Peter is also part of the organising team of Festival at the Edge, which is the oldest storytelling festival in England., and is currently Storyteller in Residence at The Story Museum in Oxford.

Likely Story Theatre Company. Theatre/ Story Workshop (Friday KS2)

Join Likely Story theatre for a fun, creative workshop that will engage students' imaginations and encourage them to create their own stories. Using theatre games and techniques, participants will be supported to explore the importance of stories, how they are constructed and the exciting ways in which they can be shared. This workshop will develop speaking and listening skills, and enable them to practise teamwork in a nurturing and fun environment. Likely Story has over 15 years of experience of creating work in collaboration with children, unleashing their imaginations and unlocking their confidence.
